ASTRONOMY AND THE BIBLE AGREES

TWO ARE IN HARMONY, SAYS COLLEGE LECTURER.

PLANETESSIMAL THEORY

Is Now General Accepted Origin of Earth, Says Dr. Harding—Zodiac Beliefs Superstitious.

"It is a pity so many people spend all their lives looking down, when if they would only look up they would see the most beautiful things created and be inspired by the greatness of eternity, 'For the heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament showeth his handwork,'" said Dr. A. M. Harding, extension professor of the University of Arkansas, in concluding a most interesting series of lectures on the subject of, "Other Worlds Than Ours."

In the lectures yesterday Dr. Harding spent most of his time showing the relation between the Bible and astronomy. In the course of his lecture Dr. Harding said that in no way does the science of astronomy differ from the teachings of the Bible and it is only the men who have a metaphysical idea of astronomy that say there is any difference whatsoever. The more you study this science the more real God seems and the greater his power. When you come to realize that the earth is just an orderly "happen-so" in a universe which makes even our solar system dwindle into insignificance, then you first begin to realize the greatness of our God," said Dr. Harding.

Dr. Harding quoted excerpts from the book of Genesis and then showed how perfectly the theory astronomists advance agree. "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth. And the earth was without form and void." This is in accord with the planetessimal theory which is now generally accepted as the foundation on which our world was created, he continued.

"In order to explain the theory so it will be comprehensible let us take a concrete example such as the creation of our own solar system which is composed of the sun, eight planets and numerous moons. The theory is that this was once all one star, another larger star passed close to this one star and the gravitation which the star possessed actually pulled substance out of the original star. This trailed along as a vague form behind the star for a while until the passing star was so far ahead of the form that its gravitation lost its effect and the original star began to draw this around the circuit it traveled, for every star travels in a fixed orbit unless pulled out of its course by some other force. All of this substance was a gaseous form but gradually began to gather together in spots which increased in size by pulling in still more of the gaseous substance and at the same time hardening until it had formed the eight separate planets, all of the time this traveled around the sun. Smaller solids were attracted by the planets and the gravitation of the planets pulled these balls with them, these balls forming our moons. This is in the most part the planetessimal theory as to the creation of the earthly bodies. As for the evolution and growth of vegetation on these bodies this is left to other lines of science, so it is evident that astronomy agrees with the Bible as to the origin of the earth and goes still farther in accounting for the creation of the other celestial bodies as well."

Dr. Harding explained the scientific reason for the heat of the sun. The heat is caused by the shrinkage of the sun, he said. It is figured by astronomists that the sun shrinks 300 feet a year in diameter and this alone is sufficient to cause all of the heat and light produced. Dr. Harding stated that if the sun's heat was caused by the burning of a coal or a chemical action it would be completely consumed in 4,000 years and scientists have conclusive proof that the sun has existed for millions of years. This also corrects the theory that the sun is growing colder.

An interesting fact which gives additional proof to the planetessimal theory is that the sun is continually losing substance and this substance forms into small planets but so minute that after it hardens it is harly visible to the telescope.

In yesterday morning's lecture Dr. Harding discussed Zodiac belief. He said that this was all superstition although you frequently find reference

Cut Your Weeds; City Starts Campaign

The weeds around the city must be cut at once.

Mayor Garrett with Chief of Police England went around over the city this morning and notified several property owners that the weeds on vacant lots and elsewhere must be cut or the city would do it and then charge it up against them. In all they visited about a dozen places. Others will be seen by Chief England.

The city has had a team and a mowing machine on the streets cutting weeds all this week. Also a man with scythe has been cutting weeds around the ditches on some of the streets. This work will be kept up until all of the weeds are cut.

Barackman Wins in a Fast Bout

Myers Of Texas Thrown Last Night, First Time In 45 Minutes and Second In 17 Minutes

The wrestling fans of Maryville were given a treat last night when Lee Myers of Houston, Texas met the local mat artist, Marvin Barackman. The match was fast and clean throughout and the outcome uncertain. Barrackman took the first fall in forty-five minutes with a toe hold. The second fall went to Barackman by a wrist-lock in a little over seventeen minutes.

All of the fans are anxious to have Myers wrestle here again.

In the curtain raiser Barclay and Wilson, two Trenton boys that are attending the S. T. C. this summer met. Wilson had an advantage in weight but was given a hard tussle for both falls. He won the first fall in nine minutes and the second in about seven.

NODAWAY PRAISED FOR HEALTH WORK

PROMPT BIRTH REPORTS SAYS STATE STATISTICIAN

2,000 WERE UNREPORTED

In The State In 1922, He Says— County Has Registrars In Every Townhsip

Nodaway County stands first among other counties of the state in the best registration of births, Cortez F. Enloe, state Missouri vital statistician writes in a letter to Dr. C. P. Fryer, county health officer. This is the only county in the state where the registrars of the different townships send the reports monthly to a central office and then have them reported by the health office to the state department.

Mr. Enloe says that two thousand babies were born in Missouri in 1922 that were not registered and he has sent letters to every physician in the state urging this compliance with the state law. Nodaway County has a good personnel of registrars, who send in their reports by the tenth of every month. The following are the registrars in the county:

White Cloud and Grant Townships—D. J. A. Larrabee.

Nodaway Township—Dr. C. E. Cossin.

Atchison Township—Dr. W. H. Wiley.

Lincoln Township—Dr. R. E. Ferguson.

Hughes Township—Dr. M. M. Rhodes.

Washington Township—Dr. J. M. McClanahan.

Polk Township—Dr. C. P. Fryer.

Independence Township—Dr. Hiram Day.

Jefferson Township—Dr. H. S. Albaugh.

Green Township—J. E. Jones.

Union Township—Dr. Eugene Crowson.

Jackson Township—S. P. Ross.

Monroe Township—Dr. J. C. Manning.

In commenting upon the efficient work here Mr. Enloe said in his letter to Dr. Fryer:

"Your work as registrar in your county has been most excellent. The experiment of having the deputy state health commissioner as the head of the registrars in the county is certainly a fine plan to bring about efficient work in registration. Your county stands best in the state and you are to be congratulated for succeeding so well with the registration work during the past year.

The following is a letter sent the physician by the state registrar:

"The following are reasons why births should be registered: To prove—citizenship, right to attend school, right to work, nationality, right to vote, right to marry, right to hold public office, right to foreign travel, right to inheritance and so Missouri can take an inventory of her wealth of increased population.

"It is estimated that more than 2,000 babies born in Missouri in 1922 are not yet registered. Some day some one of these babies may be in urgent need of a birth certificate to prove some one of the above. Who will they blame when they find that somebody once failed to do his duty?

"Doctor, please ramsack your files and your memory too, for past errors and then in keeping with the ethics of our profession let us, as physicians, now resolve that we will never again leave the premises of a maternity case until the infant so brought into the world has its future career guarded by legal certificate of birth.

"Help your local registrar to protect the children you bring into the world against the "pitfals" of inability to prove the rights mentioned above by reporting all births.

"Doctor, can we expect to do this service for humanity."

30 Tons of Ice Keeps Maryville Cool Each Day

It takes about thirty tons of ice to keep Maryville cool these sweltering hot days. And the ice men say it is a hot job to keep Maryville cool during these extremely hot spells. The Everhart ice plant works day and night to supply the demand and then has to ship in some from St. Joseph.

While the rest of Maryville swelters under a relentless sun there is a group of fortunates down at the Everhart plant who enjoy the refreshments of a 32-degree atmosphere. Clad in moderately heavy garments and with mitts upon their hands, they go through the diurnal requirements with apparent unconcern of the severity of the summer heat in the rest of the city. It might have been a mild January for all that was bespoken by the atmosphere or the character of their labors.

But the lot of every employee of the ice plant is not so ideal for a hot day. In the next room there is a group working in an atmosphere rendered hotter than the outside world by the great engines driving the pumps which drives the ammonia that freezes the ice. It's a complicated job to keep Maryville cool these days.

Bass Was Released From County Jail

Writ Of Habeas Corpus Granted In Court This Morning—No Information Filed Against Him

Johnny Bass, wrestler, was discharged this morning from the county jail on a writ of habeas corpus filed by his attorneys, McCaffrey & Cook. There was no charge against Bass by the local authorities.

Bass was arrested late Tuesday evening by Deputy Sheriff Leo Atherton as it was thought at that time a white slavery charge would be filed against him by the federal authorities. Bass was placed in the county jail and an agent from the department of justice with headquarters in Kansas City was in Maryville Thursday making an investigation. No warrant or information against Bass was received by Sheriff Roach and as he has been held in the county jail over the twenty hours period, Judge Dawson in circuit court this morning granted the writ discharging Bass.

At the eharing in the circuit court this morning, it developed that sufficient evidence could not be secured to warrant Bass' arrest on a white slave charge. It was intimated that the department of justice was investigating two letters written by Bass for the purpose of probably filing information against him for violating the postal law.

CORN CONDITION HERE 88 PER CENT

FARMERS REPORT CORN IS IN GOOD CONDITION

WHEAT 82, PASTURE 100

Missouri Crop Prospects Are More Favorable Now Than Last July

The farmers of Nodaway County, Missouri, report the condition of their corn at 88 per cent. They further report the following crop condition: Potatoes 96 percent, soybeans 100 per cent, wheat 82 per cent, oats 90 per cent, apples 64 per cent, timothy 94 per cent, clover 99 per cent, and pasture 100 per cent.

Missouri farmers have 6,396,000 acres of growing corn this year of 1923 against 6,150,000 last year, an increase of 4 per cent, the condition of 85 per cent at the opening of the month indicating from the present outlook 179,408,000 bushels as compared to 175,275,000 bushels last year, according to the joint announcement of E. A. Logan and Jewell Mayes of the State-Federal Crop Reporting Service.

Missouri corn improved silghtly during June as weather permitted cultivation and was generally quite favorable to growth. The July condition of 85 per cent compares to 82 per cent last year, and a 10-year average July condition of 84 per cent. The July corn prospect is better than on June 1st. The increase in acreage is largely in northern counties and central section, while acreage has been declearsed in southeastern counties where cotton is the most important crop.

Corn is tasseling and silking in some counties, but great variations exist in size, some just coming up while other fields in the same locality are laid by. Chinch bugs are damaging in many counties. During the past sixteen years corn has held its own or improved through to maturity at October from its July condition only six years, while it has lost condition in ten of the sixteen years. Current hot days and nights are making the corn.

Missouri wheat at 81 per cent of normal on July indicates a total yield of 42,356,000 bushels as compared to 38,750,000 last year. Wheat improved throughout the central and southwest section, but deteriorated sharply in northwest counties from insect damages. Storms and floods damaged wheat in limited scattered areas. Threshing is under way.

The Missouri oat crop at 83 per cent totals 35,836,000 bushels against 17,872,000 bushels last year, and a five-year average of 50,189,000. Generally throughout the state, oats improved during June and harvesting was almost completed in the first week of July, excepting throughout northern counties. Contrary to the past five years, oats improved during June, owing to rains and favorable weather.

Rye condition is 89 per cent compered to 83 per cent last year, barley 88 per cent, spring wheat 85 per cent, and flax for seed 88 per cent.

Missouri hay at 82 per cent indicates 1.16 tons per acre. All hay improved during teh month, and excepting clover shows better prospects than last year. Prairie hay 92 per cent and during the past thirteen years has gained twelve times and lost during but one year. The shortage of hay acreage in clover and alfalfa is largely mad up by the increase in cowpeas, soybeans and sudan grass, but the acreage of grain sorghums is somewhat less than last year. Soybean acreage has been increased 50 per cent over 1922, and cowpeas 25 per cent.

Garden truck improved during June and conditions are now quite favorable. Potatoes are 92 per cent against 68 per cent last year, and sweet potatoes 88. Fruit prospects continue good, with apples 70 per cent condition, peaches 42 per cent, grapes 90 per cent, blackberries 92 per cent watermelons and cantaloupes 75 per cent.

Missouri crop prospects are more favorable now than last July. Wheat, oats and hay harvests are being completed without serious general lack of labor.

The cotton crop is improving, with some neighborhood shortages of labor. Pasturage is abundant, and all livestock are in thriving condition.

The Red Cross was providing temporary relief for the homeless and army tents will arrive shortly to provide shelter for them.

In addition to the destruction of the homes the surface buildings of the Hecla mines that provided the chief source of support for many residents, were destroyed. Between 200 and 300 reached the surface before the hoisting engine was destroyed. This allowed all to reach the surface.

Dr. Anthony Writes From Eustis, Fla.

A very interesting letter was received yesterday by H. A. Foster, head of the history department of the College, from "The Anthony's" who traveled overland to Eustis, Fla. The letter is as follows:

Just six weeks ago this morning we started out to see the world from the tourist's point of view. Thirty-seven days of travel and adventure before we found Eustis.

It was a wonderful adventure. In St. Louis we fitted out the trailer with a complete camping outfit and from there on for four weeks we lived in it, sleeping out of doors and cooking our meals by the wayside. One night a week we stopped at a hotel to clean up and learn civilized ways of sleeping. You can follow us by the state capitals we passed: Springfield, Ill., Indianapolis, Columbus, Wheeling, Annapolis, Washington, D. C., Richmond, Raleigh, Columbia, then Augusta, Waycross, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, Datona, DeLand, Eustis.

We stopped wherever it seemed interesting and stayed until all were ready to move on. Always planned to camp early Saturday afternoon and stay until Monday morning. We were fortunate in not having a hot day on the entire trip, but the rains caught us very often. Our beds were good and most of the time we were very comfortable. To bed at dark and up with the sun.

Among the high lights of the trip that especially interested us were: Two nights on top of Savage Mt., near Frostsburg, Pa., the highest point on the old Cumberland Road; three days in Washington; two nights on a plantation near Palmer Springs, Va., on the North Carolina line; a day and night on a big tobacco plantation in South Carolina. The planter was curing his tobacco by heat in big barns and they kept the fires going day and night; a day near a big turpentine still in the pine woods of Georgia; Sunday on the beach of old St. Augustine; three days along the Atlantic coast, Jacksonville, Pablo beach, Ormond, Daytona and New Smyrna; inland toward Eustis, our first night in an orange grove near De Land, Florida.

Now we are living in a rented furnished house on Sentinel Hill with Lake Dot at our back door and Lake Gracia in front of us. Paved streets and all modern conveniences. It is the winter home of a rich Ohio manufacturer and he will be here in November.

The sun is hot from 10 to 4, but very comfortable indoors and always a breeze. The nights are a joy. But, there is always a fly in the ointment—this is the off season for vegetables. No garden stuff raised here from June to September. All shipped in from the North. Think of that.

Today we had fresh Kentucky Wonder beans from Georgia, tomatoes from the Carolinas, and eggs from Tennessee. Sweet corn season was over last week. Head lettuce comes from California, etc.

We do slip out and pick our own grape fruit, and a few ripe oranges hang here and there on the trees. Limes are abundant, and mangoes, but no fresh home grown vegetables. We get good milk.

It is 2 p. m. and all are asleep. Mary Jeanette on a pillow on the floor at my feet. Dick and mother upstairs, Aunt May on the davenport.

This week we are planning two days on the Atlantic coast, probably Daytona or Seabreeze.

Our first impressions are favorable. The people have been very kind to us and have fairly begged me to open an office here. We are seeing the country at its worst, and it looks very livable. This town has a boom and prices are highly inflated, some lots selling as high as $2,500. Summer rents are twice what they were two years ago.

We are all well. The children are thriving. It looks like an ideal place for them to live outdoors and grow. We are as brown as Indians.

Hope this rambling letter will give you an idea of our lives at present. We feel we will have no summer this year—that it has practically passed us on the way.

When you can, tell us of Maryville. How are your shrubs and flowers? Think of us when you go into the garden. We will do the same when our garden grows next winter.

Six weeks since we left home and we have heard little from there; even the papers have failed to reach us here. I wrote for them yesterday.

Love to all.

Sincerely yours,
THE ANTHONYS.

411,525 Cars in State With Licenses

Increase of 18,856 Over Number a Year Ago—To Nab Chauffeurs Without Permit

Jefferson City, July 14—There were 411,525 automobiles licensed in Missouri at the close of business for the month of June, according to figures given out by the automobile registration department of the secretary of state's office, and this 18,856 more than the total number of licenses issued during the entire year of 1922, which is remarkable, Charles U. Becker, secretary of state, declared, inasmuch as the half year or six months' registration period for 1923 does not end until Aug. 1. The total number of automobiles licensed during all of last year was only 392,856, records show.

During the last three months approximately 11,000 new automobiles have been licensed by the department while the average of new cars licensed during the entire year will probably be around 7,000 a month, according to estimates by the department.

Classified, the licenses issued up to the close of business on June 30 were as follows: 372,041 owners, 39,484 trucks, 2,297 dealers, 6,883 dealers' extra plates, 1,974 motorcycles, 15,805 chauffeurs, 2,996 operators, 588 trailers, 161,000 certificates of title, 19,527 transfer re-registration, 812 official state car tags, and 9 official state motorcycles.

Of the above number the St. Louis office registered 87,261 owners, 14,887 trucks, 11,272 chauffeurs, 1,927 motorcycles, 1,722 operators, 444 trailers. The Kansas City office registered 56,450 owners, 8,200 trucks, 1,8881 chauffeurs, 365 motorcycles, 445 operators, 37 trailers. The St. Joseph office registered 17,200 owners, 1,765 trucks, 632 chauffeurs, 94 motorcycles 165 operators, 18 trailers. The Springfield office registered 11,100 owners, 1,010 trucks. The Joplin office registered 10,000 owners, 1,000 trucks. The Jefferson City office registered 190,030 owners, 12,622 trucks, 2,020 chauffeaurs, 488 motorcycles, 664 operators and 89 trailers.

A drive to round up chauffers who have failed to secure licenses will be launched immediately, officials of the department said. They pointed out that there have been 372,041 owners' plates issued, in which taxi cabs are included, and 39,484 trucks licensed, while only 15,805 chauffeurs have been licensed.

TONS OF IRON ORE ARE MINED DAILY

IN ST FRANCOIS COUNTY, MO., AFTER MINE WAS ABANDONED

AT CARLETON COLLEGE

At Farmington, Mo., Work of Rehabilitating Disabled Ex-service Men Is Done

Iron Mountain, Mo., July 14.—After being abandoned thirty-two years, the famous Iron Mountain in St. Francois County has been equipped to produce a thousand tons of iron ore daily.

Ore was discovered here in 1846 and a company was formed to mine the ore. A smelter was built upon the ground and the ore was turned into pig iron. All the mining was done from the surface and it was soon thought that the supply of ore had run out and mining was abandoned, 1892.

This mountain is a part of a 17,000 acre stock farm which was bought by a Chicago man, Leonard Busby, when he decided to come to Missouri and buy a farm. He said he bought the farm for a song, $400,000.

In 1920 the main body of iron ore was discovered. Up to the present time very little mining has been done. The company has spent all its time in developing the area and is now in a position to turn out a thousand tons of ore daily.

At present the company is milling the old dump piles left by the early miners and are sending the concentrated ore to their smelter in Granite City, Ill. From all indications the ore will not be exhausted within forty years. Engineers at the mine said they were now at the 450 foot level and with a new method of mining it is possible to go 53,000 feet. With all this known there is no estimate as to when the supply will run out.

The Iron Mountain Company owns land in St. Francois County which takes in a radius of two and one-half miles from the mill.

Farmington, Mo., July 14.—Work of rehabilitating disabled ex-service men is carried on at Carleton College at Farmington, Mo. Dr. C. C. Schutter, head of the school, said it was the purpose of the school to prepare those veterans who are in need of active life so they can make a living.

There are now 151 students attending this school of whom most are from South Missouri. However, students come from other states to receive the training.

Poultry raising is specialized in, but vegetable gardening, small fruit raising and dairying are also taught to give the students something to produce along with their poultry. This is to prepare the students in such a way as to avoid a complete failure if one of their years is bad.

Classroom work is held in the morning and all the laboratory work is done in the afternoons. Each student has his own pen of 150 chickens. He receives instruction by actually performing the duties which will be required of him when he gets away from the school.

The training here lasts not to exceed two years and many finish the course in eighteen mnoths. Thirty of the men own their own farms out of Farmington and others have farms rented or leased.

After they finish the course offered here the government allows them $300 for equipping a farm and is instrumental in securing a small farm for them.

The Presbyterian Orphanage of Missouri takes children from homes that have been the victims of adverse social conditions. About 50 per cent of the 112 children that are taken care of by the institution are orphans. This institution is doing one of the most important works of any of its nature in the state.

W. S. Stinson, superintendent, said as a rule children who have no relatives to support them are given preference.

The St. Francois County court has recognized the good work of this institution and gives $600 annually for its maintenance. The annual running expense is $21,000. Last year the Presbyterian churches of St. Louis gave $11,000 of which one-third was donated by private individuals.

The children attend the schools in Farmington and are not kept in the institution after they become 16 years of age. Most of the children are placed in home before they reach this age.

It is the policy of this institution to place the children in the vocation to which they are best adapted. Now two boys are in St. Louis learning the baker's trade and one girl is in a hospital taking training to become a nurse.

All milk that is used here is produced on a dairy farm owned and operated by the institution.

Government Short on Amusement Tax

Washington, July 14—The government is investigating a large shortage in the revenue due to alleged tax delinquencies on theatres and other amusement places, it was learned today at the treasury department.

A sharp drop in taxes from this source during the past fiscal year caused officials of the internal revenue department to order a searching inquiry. It is not improbable that criminal action will follow, officials declared.

ASTRONOMY AND BIBLE AGREES

to it in the Bible. The cherubim which guarded the garden of Eden from Adam and Exe was a figure with four heads, a man's, a lion's, and an eagle's and a nox's. The figure referred to in the Bible is an allegory and you can locate the constellations are named after by the almanac. These constellations which are located at the four corners of the earth they are called by the almanac the man, a lion, an eagle, and an ox. The ancient who wrote this part of the Bible was attempting to convey the thought of this four-headed figure guarding the four corners of the earth from the heaven.

Dr. Harding also said that the days of the weeks were named after the seven discovered planets at that time. It is probable that if all eight of the planets had been discovered by the ancients that the Bible verse would read—and on seven days the Lord labored but the eighth day he set aside for rest.

Dr. Harding left this morning for Hays, Kan., Normal School, where he will deliver another of these series of lectures. From Hays, Kansas, he will go to Kansas Wesleyan University at Salina, Kansas. Then he will travel to the University of Oklahoma at Norman. Two other stops at Teachers Institute, Indiana and Fayetteville, Arkansas, will conclude his summer speaking tour.

Before coming to Maryville Dr. Harding delivered two such lectures at South Dakota schools and two in Texas.

MEN'S BIBLE CLASS
FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH, MARYVILLE.

Our great Summer Campaign is on. We aim at —An enrollment of 360 honest-to-goodness members.
—An average attendance of 150 men.

We can do it—IF we will;
We can do it—AND we will.

And it's a summer campaign. Most all other classes everywhere are on vacations. But we're going up when they're going down.

IT'S DOUBLE BARRELED!

One barrel is for new members and new visitors. The other barrel is for the old members, 300 of them. Our five Captains, twenty Lieutenants and one hundred men are working like "cats and dogs" for this. We aim to put enough spizzerinktum into everyone to make him unhappy if he does not attend every Sunday morning. It's a great round-up. Come on, boys. You never saw a dog show, bull fight, wrestling match, or a Dempsey-Gibbon scrap that has half the punch in it that this campaign will have, if every mother's son of you get into it.

Frank Tebow will sing tomorrow.

Schemes to Collect Good Dollars and Distribute Least Desirable Goods, Are Forbidden In J. C. Penney Co. Stores!

Noah Webster defines the word "sale" as "the exchange of a commodity (merchandise) for money of EQUIVALENT VALUE."

Note those words, "EQUIVALENT VALUE!"

Shakespeare says of "Saleswork" — "work or things made for SALE; hence, work carelessly done."

When an article's value or intrinsic worth is EQUIVALENT or equal to its REGULAR price, that price cannot be reduced for a so-called "sale" without loss to the merchant — and merchants are not in business to lose money!

When the price is high, it is not an "equivalent value." The merchandise is not worth the price.

Hence, when high prices are reduced it is merely re-arranging them to where they should have been in the beginning. Thus, it is seen, that the public is not being given the same fair, just and honorable treatment every day in the year.

The J. C. Penney Company never holds "sales." Prices at our Stores are fixed at the bottom-notch in the beginning.
